Environmental Liability

Businesses of all kinds face environmental risks in their day to day operations. From environmental impairment to climate-related litigation, each claim is unique and requires expertise to contain and mitigate the exposure, navigate the legal landscape and interpret the insurance coverages available.

Crawford's Environmental group understands the impact a claim can have on your organization and its stakeholders. Through technical expertise and superior service, our adjusters will bring your claim to resolution in an expedient, practical and proactive manner.

Crawford's team of environmental adjusters has experience in a variety of environmental losses including but not limited to:

- On & Off-Shore Spills
- Commercial & Industrial Accidents
- Agricultural Contamination
- Long-tail Environmental Contamination
- Exposure Injuries
- Climate-Related Litigation

Transportation

The Crawford Transportation Team deals with Environmental Exposures arising out of Commercial Motor Vehicle Accidents which involve the release of Fuel or other cargo commodities from a Tractor-Trailer onto the Roadway and surrounding areas. In the marine sector, virtually every claim has an environmental impact with exposures arising from power driven vessels, cargo commodities, and shore installations.

Crawford's Transportation & Marine Teams work with provincial Ministry of Environment agencies, Environmental Contractors and Consultants to contain and manage the exposure, ensure the scope of the clean-up is appropriate, and put in place cost control methods.

Contractor's Pollution Liability

Crawford's Construction Practice group understands the nuances of project specific coverage such as Course of Construction and Wrap-Up Liability policies. However, these policies often contain restrictions on pollution events. Contractor's Pollution Coverage protects project stakeholders when environmental impairment arises from a construction project. By pairing Crawford's environmental expertise with our Construction Practice, Crawford is well-positioned to handle these claims on behalf of our customers.
