FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CRAWFORD'S MATTHEW SOLORIO NAMED A RISING STAR BY INSURANCE BUSINESS AMERICA

Global Technical Services adjuster recognized for technical excellence, leadership and innovation in complex claims

ATLANTA (July 21, 2026) Matthew Solorio, national general adjuster at Crawford & Company, has been named to Insurance Business America's Rising Stars list, recognizing the most outstanding insurance professionals under 40 across the country.

The Rising Stars report showcases emerging leaders who are making a significant impact on the insurance industry through technical expertise, leadership, and a commitment to advancing both clients and the profession. The 2026 edition reflects a new generation of professionals shaping the future of insurance through innovation, adaptability, and strong human connection.

Matthew Solorio began his career as a claims associate while studying at Arizona State University and has steadily progressed through increasingly complex property claims roles. His experience spans large-loss, catastrophe, and technical claims handling across leading organizations, including State Farm, The Hartford, and Travelers.

Now serving within Crawford & Company's Global Technical Services division, Solorio handles complex commercial and residential property losses across the United States, including multimillion-dollar claims. His work involves coordinating multidisciplinary teams of engineers, accountants, consultants, and contractors to ensure accurate and efficient claim resolution.

In addition to his claims expertise, Solorio has contributed to innovation initiatives aimed at improving claims workflows and operational efficiency, including co-leading efforts to develop scalable solutions for claim assignment and process optimization.

“Matt is exactly the type of adjuster we should all strive to be: detailed, organized, and has a true understanding of the claims process to drive positive outcomes for all parties involved. He treats all aspects with care and consideration. Matt is not just a rising star—he’s a star, period,” said Joe Schaub, managing executive general adjuster, Crawford Global Technical Services.

This recognition highlights Solorio’s consistent career progression and his growing influence within the claims sector. As a standout example of Crawford’s deep bench of expertise in Global Technical Services, Solorio reflects the technical strength, collaborative approach and problem-solving mindset that clients rely on to manage complex losses. His ability to manage complex exposures while driving process improvements aligns with the evolving demands of the insurance industry.

The Insurance Business America Rising Stars list continues to celebrate young professionals who are redefining excellence in insurance and shaping the future of the industry nationwide.
